

Salt Lake society, when at its height, is one calculated to take the wrinkles off the brow of Father Time. It reached its zenith during the holiday week, when zephyrs laden with frost filled the air and all the land was covered in the wrapper of the virgin snow. Now the aftermath has come, and society seems to have agreed to take a rest. Still there have been several social events, but most of them were informal and small.

The gathering that brought the greatest number together was the ball given on Monday night, in honor of the bride Utah receiving her sovereign dowry, statehood, at the hands of the nation. It was a very fashionable affair and was done on a scale that has been seen here for a long time. From the way the social set is working to make things lively, the gaieties will continue without a dull word the time has come for the flowers to bloom in the spring.

The promoters of the event held a meeting yesterday afternoon at which all the committees were appointed, and from the degree of enthusiasm manifested by all present it appears that the celebration will be a grand success.
